"The Wandering Jew."

A rumor comes from a village near Antwerp that the historic "Wandering Jew" has been seen in that neighborhood. He is reported as having passed rapidly through the market place, and as having on the outskirts of the village addressed a few words to some children, who, bolder than their companions, had followed in his path. He was dressed in worn and dingy antique garments, carried a long staff, and with his profuse beard streaming in the wind, presented such an awe-inspiring appearance that the terrified villagers fled from him in fright. When he paused and spoke to the children he told them to go back and inform the people that a new ruler had arisen in Europe, who would bring Belgium, Holland and other countries under his sway, that many strange visitations would be witnessed and that many proud heads would be brought low. On being questioned as to his name, he replied, "Seek not to know. I have been here before in the past. I shall be here again in the future." Until the end of time shall I walk the earth unceasingly." The apparition, then waving his hand, turned from the children and resumed its plodding walk, and disappeared in the distance.

The report of this appearance of the "Wandering Jew" has caused great excitement among the believers in the legend, and the truth of the story is credited throughout Belgium. The legend of the Jew who had witnessed the crucifixion, and had been condemned to live and wander over the earth until the time of Christ's second coming, originated in the middle ages, and can be traced back to the Chronicles of the Abbey of St. Albans, which was copied and continued by Matthew Paris. This chronicle relates that, in 1228, a certain Archbishop of Armenia Major came to England on a visit to sacred places, and while enjoying the hospitality of the Abbey of St. Albans, among other strange stories, related that there was a man named Joseph living in Armenia, who had witnessed the crucifixion.

This man, originally called Carthaphilus, was a porter in Pilate's service, and while Jesus was passing out from the judgment hall, impudently struck him on the back, saying, "Go, quicker, why do you loiter?" Jesus looked on him with a severe countenance, and said, "I am going, but you will wait till I return." And accordingly Carthaphilus is still waiting his return. After Christ's death he was converted and baptized, and his name was changed to Joseph. In 1542 the wandering Jew appeared at Hameln, telling a story similar to the above. He, however, said his name was Ahasuerus, and that he was a shoemaker who struck Jesus on the back while on the way to Golgotha. This particular person is described as a tall man, of about fifty years of age, with long hair hanging down to his shoulders, barefooted, and wearing a strange costume, consisting of sailors' trousers, a gown reaching to the knees, and a long mantle flowing down to his feet. He spoke good German, in the Saxon dialect. 1575 the Wandering Jew appeared in the Netherlands, and this time used the Spanish language. A few years later the Wandering Jew arrived at Strasbourg, and going before the magistrates, informed them that he had visited the city just two hundred years before, which statement, it is asserted, was proven to be true, by a reference to the town records. He next was heard of in the West Indies and again France, where, in 1604, he caused considerable sensation, his presence being accompanied by destructive hurricanes. On April 22, 1774, an individual claiming to be the Wandering Jew appeared in Brussels, and told his story to the common people; he, however, had changed the popular name of this character, and called himself Isaac Laqueton. This legend has formed the subject of numerous popular ballads in the different languages of Europe, and also of poems, tales and novels by distinguished authors. It may here be remarked that this curious myth seems to have originated in that passage of the Gospel of St. John, xxi, 22, where Jesus says of John, "If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? follow thou me. Then went this saying abroad among the brethren that that disciple should not die."

A NOTE FOR NOVELISTS.—An insurance cause, now pending before the Superior Court of New York, furnishes a suicide that will constitute a godsend to some modern novelist. A widow sues a well-known company to recover upon a policy of $5,000 effected on her late husband's life, and the defence is that the deceased, after insuring himself in various organizations to the amount of over $40,000, a few weeks ago deliberately committed suicide for the purpose of defrauding the insurance company. It appears, or at least it is so alleged, that the man who was of a rather unpractical turn in most matters, having failed in business and become unable to maintain his family in any life comfort, arrived at the conclusion they would be better off without him. Accordingly he insured his life in their behalf, and then killed himself.

The Bonds are free from United States tax; the Principal and Interest are payable in Gold—the Principal at the end of Thirty years, and the Interest Semi-annually, at the rate of SEVEN AND THREE-TENTHS PER CENT, per annum.

CLEAR & HARMLESS AS WATER.
NATTAN'S CRYSTAL DISCOVERY

The following letters speak for themselves: Washington, Nov. 4, 1870.

Mr. Arthur Nattans: Dear Sir—After a very thorough and impartial trial of your Crystal Discovery for a month, I feel compelled to give you my knowledge its very great superiority over any other article now in use for the purpose designed.

The speedy restoration of the color and growth of the hair, and no one using it according to directions can fail. I am convinced, to attain this much desired result to perfection. The simplicity of the preparation and its entire cleanliness affords a new opportunity to the vast numbers utterly disgusted with the poisonous nostrums in use. Having a large number of my personal acquaintances who use your preparation with equal success, I cordially recommend Crystal Discovery to all persons desiring to use anything of this kind. Very respectfully, P. DOYLE, 701 I street, N. W.

Washington, D. C., July 25, 1870.

Mr. Arthur Nattans: Dear Sir—It affords me pleasure to say that I have used your Crystal Discovery with perfect success. Having tried many other articles, and I cannot too highly recommend it as a rapid promoter of the growth of the hair, and by a few applications restoring it to its original color. It is perfectly clean and free from any objectionable matter. Very respectfully, R. W. SILVOY, K st., bet. 4th and 5th, N. W.

Alexandria, Va., Sept. 10, 1870

Mr. Arthur Nattans: Sir—I have great pleasure in testifying to the excellence of your Crystal Discovery for the Hair. My back hair, which was remarkably long and thick, and became prematurely bald, (this being hereditary.) In eight days it resumed its natural color, chestnut-brown, coloring every hair. I like your preparation for its purity, pleasant odor, and freedom from all mineral and poisonous substances, as well as its mineral and poisonous substances, as well as its mineral and poisonous substances, as well as its mineral and poisonous substances.

Very respectfully, Miss LEWIS
